

Faculty of Economics and Political Science
Evolution of Arab and Western Political Thought

Information :

Course Code : PSC 201

Level : Undergraduate

Course Hours : 3.00- Hours

Department : Department of Political Science

Area Of Study :

This course discusses the big questions of Western political thought such as the relationship between politics and ethics, the relationship between the state and society, religion, family, social classes, individuals, women and other states. It analyzes these issues through a critical reading of classical authors from antiquity to the twentieth century within their historical context such as Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Machiavelli, Hobbes, Spinoza, Locke, Rousseau, Montesquieu, Hume, Hamilton, Burke, Mill and Max Weber. The course also treats Arab political thought since the nineteenth century until the end of the twentieth century. It distinguishes between the major trends that emerged during this period: the nationalist, the liberal and the socialist trends. Moreover, the course touches on the perception of different Arab thinkers of key concepts such as: nation, identity, justice, reform, secularism and democracy.

Course Goals:

- ✓ Distinguish between main thinkers.
- ✓ Analyze the relation between the classic and modern theories.
- ✓ Formulate academic argument in the form of a research paper.
