

The Iranian Regional Role in the Middle East 2005-2010

KARIM HASSAN ABDOU ASHOUR

Abstract

This paper defines and assesses the aims and objectives of the Iranian regional role in the Middle East and to what extent these impact on the national security and national interests of the Arab world. The paper came out with a conclusion that the Arab-Iranian interests are common in some aspects and in others aspects there is a real threat from Iran on the national security of Arab world. This paper recommends that the Middle East region in need for a regional security coordination among the Arab states, Iran and Turkey.

Faculty of Economics and Political Science at Future University in Egypt (FUE) 2011, January